both the Sufferings of the Royal Family, and the Troubles and dismal Prospects of these Kingdoms; and being fully resolved by the help of GOD, to recover his own Right, and restore the Peace and Prosperity of these unhappy Nations; He is most heartily willing to remove all Objections, and to give the utmost Satisfaction that is in his Power, not only to the just Expectation, but even to the Wishes of his People.

Time and the visible Hand of Providence have fully baffled and expos'd some hellish and absurd Calumnies; and many of his most eminent Opposers have been oblig'd (at last) to acknowledge his Right of Blood and Hereditary Title.

As to the chief Objection that remains, The difference of Religion, His Majesty hopes that all good Men will consider, that He was driven out of his own Country in his Cradle; and that every body's Education being the Choice and Business of their Parents, He was Educated by his Parents in the Religion, and in that Churchs they themselves thought to be best; and now since He has been thus Educated, and never seen any other Church; if He should declare himselfa Protestant, very sew, even of his Friends, would believe him, and his Enemies would be sure to turn it against him, not only as a mean and dishonourable, but dangerous Dissimulation.

would be fure to turn it against him, not only as a mean and dishonourable, but dangerous Dissimulation.

It is not possible for Him in his present Circumstances to enter into Disputes in Matters of Religion; and publick and formal Disputes are rarely attended with any real Advantage; but assoon as it pleases GOD to give Him the full and free opportunity of Conversation with his own Subjects, He promises upon his Home, that He will fairly hear and examine whatsoes

Church-men or Lay-men, shall represent to Him in these Matters, and whatfoever shall be the Result as to His private Opinion, His Administration shall be according to the Laws and Constitution, without giving the least ground of Offence, or making the least Incroachment.

The Church of England has reason to be assured of His particular Favour as well as His Protection, confidering the early Affurance He gave in his Instructions, bearing Date in 1703, to which He adheres, and will faithfully make them good.

He thinks the Interest of the Church of England, and that of the Crown to be the fame; They have always stood and fallen together, and the One hath been always ftruck at thio' the Other. Her former Loyalty hath juftly fhin'd in the Efteem of all the World, nor ought Her Principles to be reproach'd for the Fault of thole, who have unhappily departed from them in their Practice.

As the KING will put it out of his Power to do any Hurt in Matters of Religion, fo he gives all possible Affurance to the Security of all other things, the Rights and Liberties, and even the Satisfaction of his People, being fully refolv'd from the most folid and imperial Confideration, to make the Law of the Land the Rule of his Government, and to conform himself to the Advice of Parliaments, which He confiders to be the Security and Happiness of the KING, as well as the People.
All Ranks and Conditions of Men will find their Account in doing their Duty.

The Experience He hath got in fuffering Abroad, by the Misfortunes of the Royal Family, He will improve for the Good of his People, and for fettling the Government in the Affection of his Subjects.

And as none but He can be capable of curing the Calamities and Divisions of these Nations, so he will use his utmost Endeavour for that end, as the true and impartial Father of his Family.

And as he defigns to do all that is possible on his Part, for the Happiness and Satisfaction of his People, fo He hopes that all wife Protestants whatsoever, laying aside all groundless Prejudices, will fairly meet his good Intentions, and give him one of the best Arguments in the World, in favour of Protestants, which is, doing him Justice, the effential Part of Religion.

He is resolv'd never to abandon what is his Right by the Laws of GOD and Man, the Consequences of a disputed Succession, which have Excluded so many others of the best Families in Europe, as well as Himself, must be fatal to this and After-generations: For his own part, whatever shall happen at any time to be the Situation of the Affairs of Europe, He hopes always to have Friends to Espouse so just a Cause; and there can be no imaginable way to cure or prevent the Calamity and Consusion of these unsettled Nations, but by Restoring of Right, and Establishing of Government upon Just, Loyal, and Ancient Foundations.

For these and many other undeniable Reasons, His Majesty hopes, that those who have any regard to their own or Posterity's Happiness, will in cool Blood open their Eyes, and consider how inconsistent it is with Wisdom and Interest, as well as Christianity, to continue an Injustice, which has already cost so many Millions of Men and Money, and to run on further in the Labyrinth, when the only Remedy is not only Just and Honourable, but Natural, Easy, and certainly the Interest of every Man who is not his own

Enemy.
